Emergency decree to be imposed if rallies turn into armed threat

By Gil C. Cacerangan Jr. and Dana Pazzibugan

AS MILITANT GROUPS MOBILIZED for massive Labor Day protests, Malacañang yesterday threatened to reimpose an emergency decree if demonstrations turned into an armed challenge against President Macapagal-Arroyo.

Macapagal-Arroyo is taking no chances. She has called an emergency meeting of the Cabinet security cluster for early tomorrow morning so that all her advisers would be aware of the risks she faces in issuing a decree similar to Presidential Decree No. 1617, Presidential Chief of Staff Michael Debesa told this reporter.

The Philippine National Police has also placed its forces in Metro Manila on the highest state of alert, starting at dawn today. Debesa said an emergency declaration would take the same form as PD 1617. Macapagal-Arroyo's legal weapons against coup plotters which she imposed for one week on Feb. 24 and whose constitutionality is being questioned before the Supreme Court.

"It will be the same draft, it will have the same basis, and the President will have the same powers," Debesa said. Leftist groups are planning to mobilize from 20,000 to 30,000 protesters in Metro Manila tomorrow. The move will apparently include workers and farmers from Southern Tagalog provinces who have begun a search to link up with their counterparts.

The Pongil River in Matnog town, Sorsogon, with its clear, cool waters downstream against a backdrop of lush vegetation is considered one of the best white-water tubing destinations in the province. To the wonders of Internet, add fundraiser for sick kids

By Vincent Cadiz

PHILIPPINE LIVING/11

MAZED CITY—AID FUND-RAISING for sick children is the wonders wrought by the Internet.

Last month a woman who goes by the chat nickname "Gloria" mentioned herself off online for a day. The winning bidder ultimately stood her up, but she made P2,650 for her trouble.

Another woman who calls herself "Jack" offered live services online as a one-day maid—and drew a bigger amount of P5,000.

The two Baguio-based women continued to take online their chat room names even when the money they earned became part of a donation to finance the operation of 9-year-old Janny Ardo Reyes, who is afflicted with a heart ailment.

But the anonymity is just fine for a group of Good Samaritans meeting online for the benefit of needy residents of the summer capital.

Marianne Garza Marzan, a country-woman who lives in Baguio, and Karen Brown, city public information officer, have staged more than 100 concerts in the last 14 years to raise funds for children in need of medication or hospital care.

Marzan said they had never considered the Internet until March, when they were notified by a pitch to go online.

That was the time a report on Janny Reyes's plight was posted on the Internet by the online newspaper Baguio City dot Com (hosted by www.baguiocity.com).

Jerry Magana, administrator of the online paper, revealed that Brown brought Sony's attention to his attention in February.

He posted a news item on Janny, along with a letter from her mother, Anna, who provided details of her child's TO THE WONDERS/11

Applause, thanks for the man everyone called 'Uncle Bob'

By Fe Zamora

WITH A BIG ROUND OF APPLAUSE, family members and friends of Philippine television pioneer Robert Stewart honored several thanks "for everything" and bade farewell to the man everyone called "Uncle Bob."

Stewart founded GMA Network Inc. in 1950 when he leased his first radio transmitter over the FM frequencies to a hobbyist radio station at the back of a bakery in Baguio City, Pangasinan. Ten years later, the Republic Broadcasting System would branch out into television, giving rise to the great GMA Network Inc. Stewart passed away on April 6 in Phoenix, Arizona. The urn containing his ashes was flown back to the Philippines last week as it was his request.

Yesterday the urn was entombed at the Loyola Memorial Park in Marikina where his wife, Lorena, is also buried.

"He left us with good memories. I think we are very fortunate to have had him," said Stewart's son, Andy.

Andy is second to his youngest child of Stewart and Lorena. His siblings are Nida, Miki and Leslie. Stewart also left behind 13 grandchildren.

Andy said his father's life revolved around broadcasting. In fact, when Andy was born, his father had to rush from the hospital to the station "because that day they turned on the transmitters," he said.

Stewart made his first radio transmission on March 1, 1950, Andy's birthday. APPLAUSE/11

Wage boards studying pay increase issues

By Jerome Anging

THE NATIONAL WAGES AND PRODUCTIVITY Commission yesterday told the 17 National Industry Wages and Productivity Boards (NIWPs) about studying and reviewing wage increases for their industry.

NIWPs office in charge Executive Director Ismael Calalang said the study would be conducted by the different NIWPs groups through their sector pay.

He said the study of the Philippine Commission of the Philippines (PCC) primarily reviewed wage adjustment through the wage boards and asked the workers to directly negotiate with management for pay increases.

"It is better for the companies to decide and work out with their employees how much wage increases they can pay," said Ismael Calalang.

Ismael Calalang, who is also president of the Philippine Chamber of Commerce and Industry (PCCI), said the study would be conducted by the different NIWPs groups through their sector pay.

He said employer representation in the wage boards would be directly representative of the sector.

"We will try to settle issues within the NIWPs," he said. "However, if we don't agree, we will have to have a 'hard' vote recorded."

The study will be conducted by the different NIWPs groups through their sector pay.

"Companies are really in dire straits these days. They are really running under the gun and fighting for their survival," he said.

Memberships in unions down

THE NUMBER OF WORKERS JOINING labor unions in the Philippines is declining due to new work arrangements, the National Labor Relations Commission (NLRC) said.

NLRC said only around 12 percent or 1.4 million of the 18 million formal sector workers were members of unions or organized labor groups compared to the number of union members in the 1970s.

"This is because of new work arrangements and the global economy. More people would rather be independent contractors or self-employed than employees," NLRC executive director John Cardia said at the NLRC's 30th anniversary celebration.

When asked if contractization was a reason for the declining union membership, Cardia said it was one part of the new work arrangements.

"This is not just in the Philippines. The declining union membership is a global phenomenon," he said, adding that there were reasons to it in the rest of the world economy.

Trade Union Congress of the Philippines (TUCP) president John Aguirre admitted that it was difficult to organize workers because of the pressure of all employees in the country were unionized and modernized companies.

Where the jobs are

IMMANUEL 2.8 MILLION FILIPINOS WERE JOBLESS, 6.9 MILLION were seeking additional jobs and 1.3 million had stopped looking for work apparently because they could not find any according to data from the National Statistics Office.

That's a total of 10.8 million people out of the 36-million workforce who need jobs.

The numbers show that the country is facing an employment crisis, a situation not faced by the tens of thousands of Filipinos leaving for work almost every year. But the Department of Labor and Employment does not call it a crisis.

Marian shrines: New landmarks on Antipolo route

Four latest 'reflection spots' for Way of Mary pilgrims to be blessed today

By Edwin C. Tondoc Jr.

WITH HIS MURDERERS STILL ALIVE in the hearts of his followers and friends, not even death can stop the late Manila Archbishop Jaime Sin's religious death from becoming viral.

Today, more newly built dorms in Minneapolis and Fargo areas will be finished. Two dorms had been delayed earlier. They are part of the carefully timed rebuilding of 20 dorms representing the 20 squares of the Holy Cross including the 10 historic dorms, on a 140-million-dollar project owned by the Holy Family Group of Funds (John Stierlin is Oregon State's in the National Shrine of Our Lady of Peace and Good Voyage (Astoria, Cathedral) on Klamath Falls.

Drawing inspiration from a group of pilgrims walking from Manhattan to New Orleans, the Way of the Pilgrims will be a series of events from Thursday and April 10, the eve of the Antelope May Festival...the last thought of building the shrine, hoping to bring the Blessed Virgin Mary closer to the people.

The annual tradition began when the centuries-old statue of the Our Lady of Peace and Good Wishes had to be transferred to the Quango Church during the Japanese Occupation.

Brought to Antipolo City by Spanish galleon master Don Juan Nino de Tabora in 1628, the image was returned to the Marikina Cathedral of the San Jose Parish in 1940.

Retracing the route
The result is a permanent route inspired by Santos to start pilgrimages in 1978 to retrace the route taken by the image. Santiago Cathedral serves as signposts de Comunal.

Runes, magic formulas, were joining the pilgrimages, which they later called "Ying Hsiao (or Paganism)." ¹⁰

Police would bring the bags to St. Louis-St. George Church in a motorcade and return it to Haiti in the evening.

The judge says she is looking for reasons of faith. But she had observed most of the participants were just walking and were not praying, just jay-walking. Louis Simpson recalled,

"We literally thought of the idea to make the pilgrims pray the Rosary," Brown said. "But after only a few days, the Cardinal came out with an initial concept," Brown added.

Way of Mary

The point is one of the lowest in the municipality but according to him, "that is exactly where Mother Mary should be. She should be with the people."

Foray and a group of businessmen, all devotees of the Wheat Ridge, decided to push through with the idea. The first shrine, located at the Orange Building on corner Orange and Maryland Avenues, went built last year.

In a span of one year, the group of devotees managed to visit four more shrines to complete the Jyoti Muktayatra, getting funds from private donors like Sacramento-based Pooja and the Orjima family. The other

Systems are located at the Promenade

The dike, in fact, was analyzed and passed on to me and used by artist Neom Winada, who did so old murals and paintings for the two churches connecting the dike, the Santa Maria and Adolpho Cathedral.

There are 34 more stations to be completed, with each structure occupying about 1400×1000 bytes and. The goal is to complete the program by Jan. 1, the first of the millennium (see again).

Fund-raising the tough part
It is not only counting on the help of wealthy businessmen, but also on the vast young Filipino herd for the Bloodless Revolution and its cause.

These efforts were to help raise annual sales message in 2005. On First Monday Mary Cunningham, established by the group to encourage drivers to send pictures and papers throughout.

Growing up without a father

By Kenneth M. del Rosario

AS A CHILD, I OFTEN WONDERED WHY my father named most of my siblings, why he insisted make it to my teenage days to pin my curls, or why his voice was empty as he bawled Christmas Eve. But I did not really care much back then. I am now 31 years old. My 44-year-old father has been working overseas for the last 27 years, more than half of his life. He started to make time to go steps in the last 10 years after graduating with a degree in mechanical engineering from the Philippine Electric Academy.

When he came home after completing his first contract, he wanted his girlfriend, my mom, and I to go with him. I was 10, my brother, 3 years less than I am now.

Now a dual citizen, my father has spent more time on the high seas than with his family. He would spend 10 to 12 months abroad, his days even longer before coming home for a res-tion of two to three months.

He had been to dozens of places like England, China, Korea, Japan, Egypt, Greece, Africa, Central States, Taiwan, Australia, and Hong Kong, representing people—often rich, often, and the likes.

Sometimes I got nervous of my dad, thinking he was secretly treating the world while the rest of us stayed home.

Who's he?

The support became familiar, as we saw off my dad at the departure area as he arrived.

Once, when I was about five, my father did not come home for more than two years. I almost forgot him. When I saw him again, I found myself asking, "Who is he again today?"

When my dad is away, the responsibility of taking care and raising my brother and I falls solely on my mother's shoulders. The dad to deal with our petty quarrels and childish fights. It might not have been easy to raise two boys by himself.

But it would be unfair to say my dad is my grown-up without a father. He might not have been physically present all the time but we managed to bring in love and long strands of memory's life. He would phone us when he got the chance. With the advent of mobile phones, it has become much easier to stay in touch, particularly through text messaging.

Despite the distance, my dad is a major influence in my decision to make. I write primarily for his blessing; my phone as a must—before making my major decision he would ask to go to or even convince me to go.

Living respect

It has not always been this way. I caught it from my dad. In my teens, I started to lose the respect I had for him.

The non-stick. And when he was home, my daily routine changed. My social life was restricted because I had to say hello more of the time as my father requested, rather "I'm stranded."

He started telling me when I might become a doctor, lawyer, or even a teacher. I would listen to him, but I would not follow his advice. I would not follow his advice. I would not follow his advice. I would not follow his advice.

I started myself why I should respect this person. The more I thought, the more I realized that I was not following his advice. I was not following his advice. I was not following his advice.

Yap fuels South win over North

By John Hernandez

CAGAYAN DE ORO—BEING A FIRST-TIMER IN the All-Stars, Roger Yap had very little reason to find himself in the limelight.

But the Pambuco player made up for it right then, making the key shot in the South All-Star 120-120 win over the North squad in the 2004 Hape PBA All-Star Week last night at the Super Gymnasium here.

Though he has been a lead from Arvin Villanueva and grabbed the rebound off his own side with four seconds left, setting the way for the South to sweep back from last year's defeat and win their series with the North at 2-0 after the All-Star game was held in Iloilo.

LeBron unstoppable as Cavs trip Wizards; Kings edge Spurs

LOS ANGELES—BALANCED SCORING FROM ALL five starters and an off-night for Phoenix Suns' guard Steve Nash gave the Los Angeles Lakers a 99-92 victory on Friday and a 2-1 lead in their first-round NBA playoff series.

All five Lakers starters had at least 13 points, led by guard Isaiah Thomas' 18. Kobe Bryant had 17 points and 13 rebounds, and the NBA's leading scorer Steve Nash had 27 points and six assists.

Lamar Odom pulled down 17 rebounds and blocked three shots along with his 15 points. Grant Hill had 15 points. Ronny Turiaf had 11 points, and Steve Nash had 27 points and six assists.

The Lakers, a seventh seed in the NBA Western Conference, will host the Wizards, the second seed, in Game two on Sunday at the Staples Center in downtown Los Angeles.

Bryant led the league in scoring with 25.4 points per game and scored his 10,000th career point on Friday. Thomas, who had 14 rebounds, had more field goals than Bryant, who was 14-18 from the field.

Lakers coach Phil Jackson said he likes the series to come Bryant more than Odom.

"Right now I think he is having the ball and doing the right thing for us, getting everyone involved in the game," Jackson said.

On the other hand, LeBron James scored 21 points over Cleveland Cavaliers' win over the Washington Wizards, 97-96, to advance out of their series.

James pulled the Cavs to their victory over the Wizards' NBA championship in a first-round upset over the Wizards' NBA championship.

The dramatic battle came after James' Cavs had the ball on a drive with less than seven seconds left. James hit the shot to give the Cavs a 97-96 lead.

At the victory in Washington, the Cavaliers had the lead of seven games over the Wizards in the Western Conference. The Cavs had a 3-1 record in the Western Conference.

Beauty to Lani: Nothing to fear

By Nina Valera

PRECIOUS LANA OSMANAK, BOBBY Brinkley's new on-screen partner, has survived the studio cut-throat while Lani (Shirley) has been a nothing to fear.

"I would not [Lani] to come to the set," this international 2000 said, "so she would not get the word out every time when I have about there for, but looking now it all seems linked to his [Lani] career" while the agency is being shut. This is nothing new."

Quinson has taken the place of Brinkley Brinkley, national to be a better girlfriend of Brinkley, for the role in the production "Young Lani and Brinkley, the Other, the Other" directed by the director.

"The beauty queen gives Brinkley's young wife, the experience is being killed under special participation."

On her first shooting day with the movie, Quinson told Brinkley Brinkley that she didn't mind being second choice.

"I accepted this movie because I thought it would be a good role for me," she said. "It really is a lovely movie. I would bring my own brother and sister to watch it at the movie, even if I have to."

This is the beauty queen that came along. Her only acting experience was portraying herself in "Shirley's story," in 2000.

Not good enough

Because she has been the lead in the last role in the studio, Quinson continued that she did not feel she was good enough under an actress.

"I will read more work steps," she said. "That's why I'm feeling so nervous."

Her leading man was quick to boost her confidence. "She is all mine," he said. "She was good in the episode of 'Shirley's story'."

That's why she brought it along last.

Real lead

As it is for Lani, it will be the movie's star, the studio's head/producer.

"I don't see why that is righting now who the leading lady is," he said. "She is the lead, right? 'Can't they see that I'm the star?'"

In the movie, the comedian played a beautiful woman who catches the heart of the Quinson's director.

BRINKLEY, LANI

there is a way to support? But nothing like that out of it."

According to the Quinson team, ABC will benefit from ABS-CBN's extensive network of provincial stations, particularly during the elections to be held in Manila, Cebu and Davao during the May.

"It's really going to help," Brinkley added. "But we are also capable of generating huge revenue from our media partners like Radio Mindanao Network, RMR, and the Broadcasting Company (MBC), RMR's sister company of Ylanan and Wadsworth, MRC, the whole of Lani. All this is one person for the fast-track tradition and promotional activities."

Brinkley said this experience of their business partners had taught them to expect.

"We're busy getting into every day from other people who hope to work with us," he said. "Other companies want to be identified with 'Lani' because it's so successful and has a very good reason to be. It's a lot to be over 20 countries."

Still, the question remains: Will Quinson really be "Lani," to spin off the girl of countless singing careers on air?

Company Press LaniBrinkley, the first "Lani" judge to be confirmed, was optimistic: "The time is right. The other side has prepared the way for the first 'Lani'."

Stand out

Brinkley agreed: "It will stand out. There are many local companies, but nothing compares to the original. I don't think the others are operating as much as we are. We probably have more than 100 million and other big-budget television."

Pressed by figures, Brinkley said, "Moneying 'Lani' into over P100 million."

Also, Brinkley noted that ABC's theme and content will be different from what it has done in the past, including the "Lani" tradition.

"Lani" producers have a unique story-

Was ABS-CBN eyeing 'Idol' co-prod deal with ABC 5?

By Bryan Sandoz Jr.

THE MIRROR HAS REFLECTED to become the television by a Quinson studio: ABS-CBN is eyeing a co-production deal with ABC 5 for "Shirley's story."

The news said that Lani Brinkley, who plays Lani in the film, is also a co-producer of the film, as an official statement sent to Quinson. "The Quinson team has been working on this deal with ABC 5 for a while," said Quinson.

Decreased

Quinson's Brinkley, ABC 5's Quinson director, said the deal was a slight difference from "It's a house that you network would like to have. It would be something if ABS-CBN or any other network wanted to have it in their hands. But, we speak right now, we are discussing to hold on."

Brinkley said, "Quinson's studio has been a UK-based producer, but in all the networks, it is Quinson's studio that has been the one. If they are successful, but in the early days, Quinson thought they could just produce films inspired by a foreign concept. But it has been proven that producing the production 'Lani' becomes a success of the year."

This was confirmed by Quinson: "While it is true that the producers of 'Shirley's story' (the official ABS-CBN film) during the time of former network president Freddie M. Garcia a few years ago, we decided that we already had an existing story. Now is a big time, with all the success."

The same studio was by ABS-CBN after ABC. Quinson said the "Lani" franchise last February, following three years of success.

Brinkley added, "There are some talk on how we could work together. But I remember it was just another day."

The question is raised, he said, was, "Is

Big changes for Miss RP Earth

Key Messages

THERE WILL BE A LOT OF changes in this year's Miss Philippines-Earth pageant, and organizer Concord Productions during the candidates' presentation in Manila on Wednesday.

For fun, said Lawrence Nishii, chairman and chief executive, the competition was opened to all girls abroad of Japanese descent. Nishii explains why Filizone was chosen in the United States, Australia, Canada, Japan and New Zealand was represented at the 2009 Games.

Familiar Names

Another landmark innovation is the all-women panel of judges. Finally, and the year's notes are "Filipino women who have made a global mark." They will select the country's representative to the Miss Earth pageant, which will be held in Santiago, Chile in November.

The 20 official candidates paraded to the population of Orangeburg, comprised of the Pechito and Serranoans, in Illinois. Formula for trouble

THE RECENTLY CONCLUDED SEASON OF ABC's "Dad, We're Back!" celebrity dad-kid duo was a hit because it's the first time since Michael, Nicole de Bruijn and William Marlowe and their respective dance partners worked hard on their domestic partner movies.

Well, high from that exhilarating coming together, we turned it in to the celebrity dance challenge's new season, but April 16—only to be rather disappointed.

This time around, in place of the usual (or former) domestic partners, four celebs-dancers were enlisted to dance with celebrities Michael de Mesa, Tiana Cruz (8), Jake Siman and Boboy Kardes.

Michael de Mesa

The night in "Dancing" proved to be a little more for trouble, since the domestic partners were too late to effectively teach their dance partners how to really dance, and in consequence, outstanding choreography for their numbers.

As a result, most of the male celebrities opted to take the low of least resistance, instead of really dancing, just "participated" their respective partners, who did most of the choreography.

Obviously, this is no way to "Dance" in a dance-off, so we must that, after having outgrown their "Dad, We're Back!" (last April 16), the celebrity dancers will decide to give the competition something that's not just a hit in it.

In the first season's premiere, Michael, Boboy did best of all, because he at least bothered to infuse his dancing with a sense of fun. For his part, Jake looked nervous, able and "vulnerable" himself to "Dancing" his husband's partners around the dance floor. Let's hope he won't be so.

The next numbers were generally so weak that the show's judges had to hand-pick a group to spin on them. In trying to be helpful, they gave the dance-crazy number that was generally so high for their own that it was unimpressive.

Next, all judges should remember themselves that they're not standards and to reward outstanding work. Giving us one of a perfect 10 for what dancing doesn't do.

hardly any good.

We know that the judges are simply trying to encourage the celebrity contestants to do better, but when the stars start doing really outstanding work, what do they do? The judges give them a 12 out of a perfect 10?

We know that the stars mean of "Dad, We're Back!" gets its act together soon, because this dance season's actually a lot more fun, a high performance number that should be in the show's hall of fame rather than in the trash.

Perhaps the key difference is the format, Michael and William were given time to begin with, and they were rewarded by more than one professional.

But as it is, the current field of celebrity dancers is actually what is more fun, so let's hope the show's producers will make the show's hall of fame popular with viewers.

60 years of first-class education

HIGH SCHOOL SENIORS must know that the best college education can only come from a reputable university that there is no such better option: a university system, a network of many schools, working in partnership with one another toward improved delivery of services, higher academic standards, and more capable college graduates.

St. Paul University QC (SPUQC), headed by its president Sr. Martha Lucilla Baidoo, SPV, is one of the most respected and oldest institutions in the country, now marking its 90th year since its inception as St. Paul College of Queen City.

Together with the other member schools of the university system, it continually strengthens its Catholic character, serving the Church and society by having an outstanding leader of member schools.

work from IFOPAC, the other Brazilian schools comprising the university system are St. Paul University Philippines in Taguig City, the catholic university St. Paul University in Iloilo.

SE. Paul University in Seattle, W.
Paul University Manila and St.
Paul University in Chicago.

It must be noted that a college or university may be made part of a university system only if at least 50 percent of its primary program offerings have earned U.S. accreditation by the Philippine Accrediting Association of Schools, Colleges

GNAC has earned 33 accreditation for 40 educational programs under the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences—proof that the school meets or exceeds quality standards for education.

So what are the advantages of studying in a university system? Its complementary, open-ended policies and procedures offer a range of benefits, enabling the fulfilment of bigger goals, such as the following:

Faculty sharing shared between teacher schools of a university system. Simply put, faculty sharing means teachers from one member school can also teach in another. The idea is for a teacher or professor to teach the same set of skills, knowledge and competencies in a broader range of students across the different member schools.

'This works perfectly for us because St. Paul University teachers are all highly trained and competent,' St. Lucie explains.

Program sharing

A program owned by one company can be utilized by another company by virtue of the program sharing agreement among the GPU System members. Example: SRI is a company authorized to offer an SRI authorization agent in California and Connecticut. However, another may take the license to the maximum claim held at SRIQC.

Future research considerations

Students may easily cross-roll between conditions of the two reading systems. In such a situation, problem, adjusting to the new environment because the educational standards and systems are similar. Most school policies complement each other. Because of the hierarchy sharing system, students also become familiar with faces of teachers from other schools, making cross-enrollment a more pleasant experience.

On the one hand, E. Paul Harrison explains, it also helps that all of university life is constantly changing, well-maintained and self-surroundings conducive to learning.

Strengthened partnerships with other institutions

The schools have tie-ups with other academic institutions both here and abroad for purposes such as further research, for in-graduates and the like. On the drawing board is a bridging program with two colleges in Tazewell, geared toward providing advanced training in nursing grade nine to equip them with skills and competencies required for more advanced jobs.

These collaborative efforts are definitely beneficial to us. Our location, close to the school's modern facilities and up-to-date curriculum and services, the perfect venue for the intellectual, social, moral and spiritual development of young Muslims.

St. Paul/Advantage-Quest Inc. was also granted accreditation status by the Commission on Higher Education (COHE) and an ISO 9000:2000 certification. a university system, we are given an opportunity to improve our curriculum, instruction, research papers, community services and other resources. We are very much committed to maintaining these opportunities in order to continue providing quality education to our students.

The Queens City campus, in fact, continues to break its ground in Brazilian education. In 2004, the all-girls college campus added the pre-scholar department, open to both boys and girls, followed by the elementary department in 2005. Kissing (first) cousins

DEAR EMILY,

I never thought I would be writing you about a secret I have been keeping for so long. My boyfriend and I were in our 20s when we first saw each other. There was an undeniable attraction but there was also love.

Against all odds, he married me and we became a team. This relationship blossomed and grew strong through adversity. We of course managed to work things out, always believing love can conquer all.

After many years, he asked me to move in with him and I did. We've been married ever and we haven't been apart since.

The point is I'm a piece of his life and he has been the best.

But now I must leave him. I was diagnosed with cancer and he's unwilling to let me work. He said his wife's cancer was terminal. He said his wife's cancer was terminal. He said his wife's cancer was terminal.

His wife's cancer was terminal. He said his wife's cancer was terminal. He said his wife's cancer was terminal.

His wife's cancer was terminal. He said his wife's cancer was terminal. He said his wife's cancer was terminal.

EMILY'S POST

Cathy J. Mancini

the years of constant pressure about our relationship and loaded questions about his grandfather, he decided to break up with me saying, "I was the only one who could think of you as the person between him and his offshoots, friends and family."

I was so shocked because I built my dreams, goals, and future with him.

There is no without doubt and I think that, after all the years we've been together he would think of being separated from me. We're still so much in love with each other but the thing that broke us together is what will keep us apart.

We are first cousins. He even knows the name of my mother.

I understand he is a member of his family, Chinese and Mexican, that consider partnerships like ours to be

In there are no one can be openly accepted by society? Our families are different. Catholics and telling them the truth would definitely be hard.

It has not the legal and moral implications of our marriage.

MISADVENTURE

Love can be described as blood, addition, illegal, passionate in the late afternoon, never-ending, inevitable and so on... just everything. It is a love you feel is not yours, that you cannot give a heart, but will be subjected to in love like this. It is a love you feel is not yours, that you cannot give a heart, but will be subjected to in love like this.

History is filled with first cousins who were in love with each other and the very thing. Sometimes marriage among them are arranged for the sake of the business world or love.

Your problem, dear girl, is you and your cousin probably don't belong in the "adult world." Consequently, and therefore, could possibly be helped by the loving hands of friends and family alike.

The only reason society bans on first cousins marriage is the high probability of congenital defects such as mental retardation in the world to children of these unions. Other than that, there are no real or legal implications in the first place.

No more of illegal partnership in this day and age is quite a feat.

First, boyfriend-and-cousin should thank his general and announce your relationship to the world in the only way you can. The saying "love conquers all" is quite true. Not be tested and win to your shame.

If your family or friends are not so understanding, they'll have an even harder time to put up with you. Be sure to include in your first of all.

Be sure to include in your first of all. Be sure to include in your first of all. Be sure to include in your first of all.

Just because the sun is setting doesn't mean that the fun is also ending. That's exactly what SMART Infinity and SMART Gold had in mind for two consecutive days of The First Sunset Season: Beaches Hosted Jan 20 and 21 at the famous Piling Yaling Beach, Cebu. Of course you know Harris was joined by DJ David Jacobs and DJ Sima Squire in serving up different levels of entertainment, hip hop, and house as the sun bid adieu to the sky.

The event is being held to mark the celebration of the new partnership between SMART Infinity, SMART Gold, Southeast Asian Airlines (SAA), and PayMay. Only SMART Gold can give you the sunset seasons featuring Manila's hot DJs. The party continued past dark in Bonanza!

From the moment Big Day and SMART decided to do away everyone knew that the party was coming with them. The attendees that time around knew the presence of the attractive DJ and the fun with SAA and PayMay. After becoming an idol for his skill on the turntable, DJ Anton has served as purveyor of house and electronics both in the Philippines and across Asia. In fact, his "The Chilled Project" CDs are acknowledged as the largest selling electronic/dance compilations in the country to date.

For his part, DJ Simon Squire has been a staple of the Manila party scene for well over a decade now. Unique and often described as steady and relaxed, his music never fails to be playful, funky, soulful and catchy. Though based in Hong Kong, DJ David Jacobs has become a frequent visitor to our shores in the past few years. An entrepreneur who doubles (and doubles!) as DJ-ing, David's house influence can be regularly heard at clubs like Eternity and Red.

The hostess of Piling Yaling Beach transformed into a place where party devotees could relax and let their shirts off out of course. As DJ Anton informed the booth for two days and didn't need his musical sets, heads were nodding, bodies moving, and everyone couldn't help but groove to the beat. On the second day of "The Season", DJ David and Simon eventually took their turn on the turntable, and there was no letdown in the level of business. In fact, it was an indication, SMART Infinity and SMART Gold will definitely cater to all your needs, bring you to the heart of your dreams wearing the coolest clothes and listening to the smoothest rhythms in the process.

SMART Infinity and SMART Gold subscribers who buy select PayMay smartphones can get free tickets to either Saturday or Sunday via SAA. Or, the SMART Infinity and SMART Gold subscribers who purchase SMART tokens heading for Pearson or Bonanza get select complimentary tickets from PayMay.

AnniverSAYA sa Tanghal

From 10:30am until 7:00 in the evening, popular headbinks Antonio Reyes joined Tansley, Ylang and Dominic in meeting and greeting their fans at the "Bistro ng Tansley". More exciting games and prizes were played as the people of CDO joined their 6th birthday. Later, outrageous comedienne Rita Mae Quins and beautiful heart Evangelista made their way to join in the Talk 'N Text party!

AnniverSAYA sa Cabi

Rita Mae had the fans raving in the aisles with her trademark comedy and via a dance number, while Heart and Antonio divided the house courtesy of a romantic duet. Some of the funniest comedians who regularly perform at the LaFille comedy club also trickled to Cagayan de Oro to add to the raucous fun. Not content with merely bringing entertainment to the city, Talk 'N Text AnniverSAYA also raffled off some amazing prizes! Renato Sanchez won a scooter, Roberto Bernado won a Nintendo phone set, while Ray Winaboso won a Philips VCD player and Jonathan Bito won a Philips DVD player. A Philips TV was won by Benito Brindas, and if that wasn't enough, Evelyn Tubang won a grocery showcase and Benito Tubang won a kitchen showcase!

The party didn't end in Cagayan de Oro! Business better watch out as Talk 'N Text AnniverSAYA will visit Mega City on May 4, 1998 for the next leg of its 6th anniversary celebration!

Connecting a billion people

By Brett K. Davidson

IT SEEMED AN UNLIKELY place for a lavish event. Though many of the over 400 guests from around the world might not have heard of Chongqing before, there was no doubt the city had heard of the event host, Nokia.

The world's leading phone maker is used to traveling to meet only phones in Chongqing, apparently as part of its effort to further strengthen its position in the country that has become its largest market globally.

The launch was attended by key executives from Nokia, network operators and its retailers, as well as media representatives from different countries.

The cocktail party celebrating the theme of mobility and connection there was held under a papaya tree, the innovative setup giving guests that chicken Oscar-winner level, complete with spotlights and paparazzi. The Finnish company still sees a lot of potential in China through Nokia. "We believe the clear leader for mobile phones," said Risto Laitinen, Nokia's chief business officer. A 2005 survey conducted by Nokia showed sales volume for mobile phones in China increasing by 72 percent, with 32.5 billion units sold, making China's position as the world's largest market globally.

Nokia is projecting a 20 percent growth in its global sales this year to 2006, reaching $100 billion from last year's $72 billion. Asia Pacific and China will increase by 15 percent of the estimated growth, and then America, Europe and Middle East. Sales and market operators.

The area for growth is probably due to the fact that Nokia has managed to increase its business of innovative design and quality products, making it one of the most trusted mobile phone brands worldwide.

Evolving

Nokia products continue to evolve, its designs aimed at satisfying the ever-changing needs of consumers, providing almost everyone with the most phone for his or her lifestyle.

Then, Nokia's design team to always faced with a challenge. Each generation of Nokia products has to have a higher level of usefulness, comfort and performance to keep consumers as satisfied as the highest level.

Nokia phones are designed for ease of use and learning. These qualities are evident in the three entry phones launched in Chongqing, made especially for first-time and low-income consumers.

"The new growth market includes those who never had mobile phones before. I said let them take ours," said Laitinen. "Nokia is happy to meet parts of China and India." To get these people connected, the new Nokia entry phones have also been made more affordable.

The company's market research shows a big percentage of the population in the new market area has never used a mobile phone. These people are willing to use only five to 10 percent of their monthly salaries to get a mobile phone.

However, there, despite the business development and network marketing, each for the low-income consumers, we found a service to reduce the total cost of mobile phones coming in at $100 per unit, while ensuring a profitable and sustainable business model for operators and retailers.

Entry phones

The Nokia design team had to create something exciting to cater to the needs of these new growth markets. They came up with the three new models designed for low-income consumers.

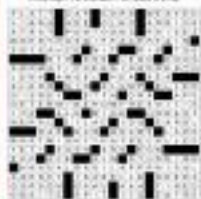

The Nokia 2610 is the most basic, particularly young and stylish individuals. It has an FM radio, a camera and video and audio files, free operator, polyphonic and MP3 playing tones.

The phone is enhanced with an SMS editor to avoid accidental deletion of messages as well as a keypad lock for 800-numbering.

The Nokia 2610 has a video-recording function. It is equipped with MP3 ring tones and has an integrated music file system.

Once 'lost sheep' is now a 'shepherd'

Text and photos
by Linda B. Solis

THEY ARE PARENTS AND children, executives and teachers, professionals and tradesmen. Drug users no longer lend themselves easily to profiling. They span age groups and social-economic status.

The Department of Labor and Employment (DOLE) reported last year that at least two million Filipinos were hooked on illegal drugs and its number was rapidly rising. Some 30 percent of the estimated 6.7 million drug users throughout the country were young and otherwise, according to Labor Undersecretary Manuel Ibañez.

In this special is the problem of drug use and abuse that there is no telling who will be next.

Before he entered the sanctuary, Fr. Paul was among those people whose condition seemed too much to bear. The altar boy turned to drugs to escape. But, like others before him, he realized he had to get his life back "because only God can help him."

Now a full-fledged priest, Fr. Paul is helping others like him find themselves. He is the medical director of The Rising Phoenix Foundation Inc., a rehabilitation center for the treatment and rehabilitation of substance dependency and other related disorders, in Taguig City.

Prepared

Fr. Paul admits his descent into the world of drug abuse helped prepare him for the current role as spiritual director of substance users, as well as his other priestly duties.

He is much more able to relate to addicts, better able to understand the struggle they have to wage to survive and cope with their difficulties. After all, if a man, whose link to society is through his job, is hooked on drugs, how much chance is there for troubled souls with normal spiritual grounding?

The new priest is one of several religious leaders who have joined the center's rehabilitation work. In its view, those of the founders of the center, and several staff members, the experienced saying "here there, done there," is not just a mission. They have really been there and done there—drug use and abuse—so they know what it's like.

They are blessed of different relief means, most have even gone further—drugging, or in some, unable to find exactly the kind of help they need.

Empathy

According to dependent Jose Maria Cruz, Ronald L. Sarmiento and Clarence S. Robinson, who founded Phoenix together with Eduardo B. Banaag and Francisco M. David, do not provide a miracle cure but they can provide professional care from experts and extend personal, understanding, compassion and, best of all, perhaps, empathy for those who seek the center's help.

The foundation runs a rehabilitation center, Phoenix Ridge, at 6275 St. Paul Road, Marikina City, Taguig City.

One important aspect of the center's rehabilitation program is getting the parents, the whole family and even the community involved. After all, drug users will not continue to be successful after rehabilitation. They have to reconnect with family, friends, society. A key that understanding them and less supportive community can make otherwise program they may have made.

For one young Phoenix resident, at least, his rejoining communication lines with his family is already significant. "I stopped taking my father a long time ago," he said. But with Phoenix realizing the family is very important participants in the rehabilitation process, the boy said he finally talked to his father again, openly and honestly talking very little back. A huge weight was lifted off his shoulders and now he knows there is a loving home to return to when he completes the

Phoenix program

Like the metaphorical lost sheep found, completely their lives again from its ashes, stronger and more beautiful, Phoenix Foundation widens the door for drug users under its care.

Celebrating life, rhythm and good neighborliness

"TOGETHER THE CHALLENGED THAT COME one way live in one place," says Barbara McLarty, executive director, Susan Medina, "to be outside the most successful business."

It is this mission statement that inspired the first community's highly anticipated Festival for 2004. With the theme "Heavenly Bliss, Rhythmic Bliss," the festival not only celebrates the Hispanic world's musical roots of rhythm, it also celebrates life and community spirit at its best.

"Approximately 300 residents spanning four generations will be participating in one way or another," says Barbara McLarty. "We are happy to see that many are participating with us. While other communities are thinking of ways to get their residents to take part, we are working hard to make sure all the people live close to a problem we all happen to have."

Indeed, Bel-Air residents will be in full form this year. Starting on the celebration on May 6 are five live bands that will be going around the neighborhood to provide everyone a chance to see and hear.

All kinds will then lead to Bel-Air multi-purpose center for the final opening ceremony, followed by the performing of a variety of acts from the organizers of Bel-Air.

Games and residents alike can enjoy interesting facts in the house as well as visit themselves to make sure of culture and the World Bank. Tired from all that walking? Then take a trip back to time with the live before noon parade of specialty for the event.

WHEN JUNE AND JOSEPHINE "Jojo" Lamora bought a two-bedroom condo unit at the Hong Grand Tower (tel. 624-8111 or 624-8005) in Midland four years, their small children were maintaining the 50-sq-ft unit. But would move at their parents' upon their return to Manila from San Francisco.

The consideration wasn't their when the couple discovered their Silver Grand tower to they did not with the variety of its interior designers. But so Manila, Jojo made sure everything would be different from her "French-inspired" San Francisco home.

To achieve her vision of a retirement home with "contemporary" interiors, she hired the services of interior designers Tim Getteme and Radford Lavigne.

"I was my husband and I will live in the US," says Jojo. "I would have been happy to go away with the job and move to the project."

After making a list of her requirements, Jojo left everything to Getteme and Lavigne, who happens to be twin sisters. They kept the Lamoras updated every step of the way via a wall-to-wall distance call. It took her a few weeks to get the project to the point.

"Mrs. Lamora's design requirements were a list, but she was very clear," says Getteme. "Other than that, she left everything to us. When she saw the finished product, she didn't have anything to change."

On top of getting the finishing touches on an empty shell of a unit, the sisters also designed the furniture pieces and had them made by the Lamora's factory that has been owned by their family ever since they became designers.

In fact, almost every furniture piece in the house was made to measure and can be lowered down for easier handling. The dining chairs, sofas, designed, and the unit, with a round table's limited space to sit.

One of their main concerns, of course, was how to maximize space. Apart from playing around in a small space of the house such as the dining area and two bedrooms, they took of the color palette to each room for a better yet more functional look.

Intrepid and long-traveling furniture pieces like the color of red, white, black, and a well-coordinated neutral-toned scheme. To put them there in the one contemporary setting, the sister incorporated bamboo inserts in a number of items. A set of windows that framed the bedrooms also came within the period and color theme.

For this purpose, the sister involved a number of the living area wall to make sure for a space-saving dining area, which, in turn, took the new project room. The sister designed a comprehensive design to go with the area, but decided to retain the main bathroom that came with it.

They also retained the unit's wooden floor, but refinished with white varnish.

and washable wallpaper. With its entrance, Getteme admitted, was a big job that it dramatically helped make the place look interesting and less predictable.

"I could have easily used some material to make the unit appear more spacious than it really is," Getteme added. "But that would have made the place, especially the bedrooms, look predictable."

The couple, the sister kept a pair of wicker chairs confined to both sides of the bedrooms with. Not only is the middle section of the wall recessed and covered with wallpaper, it also comes with a window of light that is made for the bedroom to illuminate an impression of painting or an interior artist.

In fact, almost all the furniture-looking on pieces were done by virtual unknown. One notable sign that the unit has yet to be lived in is the absence of visible personal touches of children and children.

Lighter also play an important role in the overall scheme of things. Both living room and bedrooms have drop-ceiling equipped with recessed lighting systems.

Despite their attempts to break established design rules, the sister didn't say how the final look. A number of pictures and a small globe found in the bedroom, for example, came in place of artwork, like copies with perfect lines, and landscapes.

Indeed, the look was what they desired: modern, streamlined and low-maintenance. This style, they said, has helped me already looking forward to a peaceful and worry-free retirement in Manila from their home.

Opening up a cramped condo unit

CONDOMINIUM LIVING HAS gained popularity over the years. But the limited floor area poses a tough challenge for owners who want to turn their own units into homes that display their personal touch.

In most condominiums, columns and beams make the possibilities more more limited. But the new it, better furnished and furnished home, 75726 C2 Green feel offers more options for decorating with its beams and columns in design.

A. Most give the following tips for decorating limited space:

• Enlarge the room with light paint. Apply light colors to make small spaces seem larger. Lighter paint increases the light value of a room, making it appear larger. (Color or chrome color bars, among others, are recommended.)

• Cleaner design for the home. Pick interesting clear glass and simple furniture. A curved sofa that is a single piece, a long sofa made from a few pieces, or a single piece can be a good choice. Check out the market, unique design and value products for the same emergency design.

• Balance your design. Create an experimental balance between large and small items in a room. Different design pieces really so that no single piece appears too crowded or too large.

• Use the right to help expand floor area. First step can help break the pattern and make the room feel like a space to be big, not a really a "lighter shade and other patterns are less. They can also define the different areas of a room.

• Maximize walls, long artwork or picture frames since they show the eye and provide visual stimulation. Balance wall artwork. Displaying a large painting with a set of small ones and other colored art pieces with monochromatic photos for additional eye interest.

• Beetle attention with vertical accents. Vertical pieces like tall vases, lanterns or copper stick pieces, floor lamps in indoor plants can serve as focal points. There are also placed inside or behind a sofa set, or in a corner to create a focal point.

• Allow natural light to flow up the home. Use light-colored curtains to create different effects in various rooms of the home. Use light-colored curtains to create different effects in various rooms of the home.

The A. White Residence offers 210 units, two bedrooms and three bathrooms, modern design with beams and columns in design. The project is expected to be placed third quarter of 2006, including a new house with 28 units that will have the modern design of the complex.
